*From 2015, B&Cie separates its investment recommendations into Core Holdings (higher organic growth potential, high free cash flow, ROCE in excess of the cost of capital and balance sheet efficiency throughout the cycle) and Satellite Recommendations, which do not meet the above criteria but are likely to outperform in the short-to-medium term.

Profile

Originally a harness and saddle maker, French firm Hermès, founded in Paris in 1837, designs, makes and sells luxury products in the fields of leather goods, ready-to-wear clothing, perfumes, watches, lifestyle accessories and tableware. Even today the company is still majority owned by the Hermès heirs (who have a 66.7% stake).

Market - competition - positions - barriers to entry

Hermès is the luxury sector pure play, positioned at the very top of the market, with a predominant share of its business in highly profitable categories: leather goods and silk. In addition to strong international expansion in its traditional businesses, the company has diversified into watchmaking and jewellery, acquiring bootmaker John Lobb, Crystal Saint-Louis and Puiforcat silversmiths.

Investment case

- For the past ten years, Hermès has been riding the wave of a surge in luxury in Asia and tourist business in Europe. The luxury goods industry is benefiting from growing wealth, the rise of new middle classes in emerging countries and premiumisation. Hermès plays skilfully on the rarity, exclusivity and high desirability of its products to optimise management of its production and earnings growth. The recent years saw an excellent performance, with increased production capacity, strong volume growth and higher prices all coming fully into play. Hermès is expanding its distribution network (store openings and renovations), increasing the digitalization of its sales and diversifying its activities (Watches, Clothes/Accessories)... all growth drivers for the future. Its momentum is buoyed by strong demand, increased product offerings and new leather goods factories to better satisfy it.
- Hermès' performance in 2021 was remarkable in every respect, with record results (sales, EBIT, margin, EPS) and a contribution from all markets: the Americas (+57%), Asia (+45%) and a rebound in Europe (+37%) thanks to fewer restrictions and the reopening of stores.
- After the slowdown at the end of last year due to supply constraints (replenishment of Leather Goods inventories), sales momentum re-accelerated in H1 2022 to levels that outperformed all its Luxury Goods peers. We can better understand management's confidence in its ambitious sales growth target for 2022, especially since production constraints have been resolved, the ramp-up of new supply capacities will help, and price increases will be +4% this year. Hermès emphasized the strength of the US market, the recovery in Europe and the upturn in China, with no change in its sales momentum at the end of July in all its business lines. Although marketing expenses have been shifted to H2, the group is confident of maintaining its profitability at a very high level. The quality of this publication and the statements made by management show that Hermès is heading for a very good year in 2022. The visibility offered by a model that allows the Group to monitor its profit growth is reflected in our 2022-23 forecasts.

ESG - risks and key points

- Thanks to its moderate exposure and sound management of the relevant issues, the company is at low risk of suffering material financial impacts linked to ESG factors.
- It is subject to a moderate level of controversy (need for a skilled workforce for its unique craftsmanship; transferring income to locations that are fiscally advantageous; human rights violations associated with leather producers and tanneries).

Valuation in EUR

Current price	Value Bordier Scenario
1330	1'415

Our scenario takes into account 10-year interest rates in Europe at 2%, sales which, after the strong rebound in 2021, are aiming to grow by 10% in 2025, and a margin that reaches 40% by that time and then normalizes over the long term.

 The theoretical value reflects the company's business model, our baseline growth and profit scenario and market data, exogenous to the company (risk-free rate and equity risk premium). It does not in itself constitute a target price.

Glossary

ESG Risk Score

At B&Cie, we take particular care to ensure that the companies in which we recommend investing are sustainable. Accordingly, our selection process takes account of risks relating to environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues. This approach is underpinned by research from Sustainalytics, the global leader in ESG and corporate governance analysis, whose methodology aims to identify major controversies and risks and assess a company's ESG risks relative to both its sector and the investment universe as a whole. The corresponding score is expressed as a percentile: the lower the overall risk score, the lower the risk within the investment universe.

b-Digital, b-Transition & b-Well

Over and above the conventional geographical and sectoral approaches to asset management, at B&Cie we believe the world of tomorrow is being shaped by structural trends. We have identified three main megatrends: ongoing digital globalisation of the economy; economic transition, particularly in the energy sector; and the quest for wellness. We believe selecting and investing in companies that play an active role in these transformations should lead to more resilient portfolios that generate higher long-term returns. Our investment recommendations in the digital globalisation space are labelled "b-Digital", those in the economic transition space "b-Transition" and those in the wellness space "b-Well". A given recommendation may fall under more than one theme, in which case it will carry the relevant matching labels.
